

Adaptation is response to change (including planned and unplanned)

Human adaptation sets the stage for future actions and adaptations. These can enhance future adaptive capacity or be maladaptive

These actions also influence drivers of future change and lay the groundwork for future adaptive capacity and socio-ecological transformation

Adaptation actions impact how natural resources are managed, how and where infrastructure is built, and how assets are allocated